A Brief Abstract of the Event (Maximum 500 Words):

The purpose of this course was to enhance the research understanding & capacity of social science research scholars & faculty members. The workshop gave a thorough exposure of research methodology to the participants with special emphasis on data analysis with the help of Excel and SPSS. Field research and report writings was also the part of the course. The course was designed in such a manner that it gave hands on training in selection of research topic, formulation of research problem, preparation of questionnaire/schedule, understanding to construct & variables and to enable the participants to know the specificities of research process & ethics of research. This course also gave the exposure of how to write research proposal & funding schemes of ICSSR.

There were interactive sessions, presentations, exercises and discussion on field report, project proposals and sample research papers. Outlines were also prepared by the participants during the training programme. The course benefitted all participants as they were able to develop conceptual clarity about the various topics dealt in detail during the course. The main objectives of the course were as under:

- To acquaint the participants with the philosophy of research.
- To enable the participants to know the specificities of research process and to select an appropriate research design.
- To acquaint the participants with sampling techniques and enable them to choose an appropriate one for their research.
- To enable the participants to use an appropriate technique for graphical representation of their research data.
- To comprehend appropriateness of statistical software packages (SPSS) for analyzing research data.
- To acquaint the participants with the basics of report writing.

Schematic representation of the content covered by the different resource persons is given in table.
